INVESTMENT COMMENTARY

Have the markets already shaken off Liberation Day? It's hard not to be tempted to say so at the end of April, when equity indices show that the markets, true to their optimistic bias, seem to have resolutely "bought" the end of the US administration's tariff escalation, in the face of the 47th POTUS's multiple U-turns since April 2. Even though the average tariffs imposed by the USA are still over 20% (compared with 2. 4% in 2024), the initial announcements of "reciprocal" tariffs are essentially only on a 90-day pause, and companies are constantly showing off their difficulties in navigating the all-too-artistic vagueness of the present day, the gale that swept through the markets for most of April seems a long way off... at least, beyond equities, in terms of iTraxx index levels: Over the period, the X-Over will have deviated by just 22 bp, compared with 5 bp for the Main. In fact, the performance of cash credit indices over the period points to a slightly more pessimistic reality, that of a rise in end-investors' risk aversion as the scenario of slowing global growth takes shape. The contrast between the performance of the sovereign & IG indices (+1.95% and +1.19% respectively) and that of the HY (+0.15%) and Hybrid (+0.38%) indices over the period bears witness to this, in addition to the 30bp tightening of all eurozone 10-year sovereign rates.

The portfolio's granularity remains a major asset in this uncertain environment, with strong diversification across sectors and geographical zones. Regarding customs duties, most of the issuers in the portfolio are only marginally impacted directly by these threats, due to their low or non-existent exposure to the US market, or because they have production facilities on US soil. The core portfolio remains predominantly positioned in the crossover segment, with 25% in the BBB segment and 46% in the BB segment.

The fund offers visibility on expected returns, with an average yield to maturity of 4.89% for an average maturity of 4.2 years and an average BB rating.
